Altered carbon season 2 episode 1 cast singer

What to Watch Movies Shows Netflix Disney+ Tubi More Edit Summary Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 1, "Phantom Lady" provides a storming start to the new story as Kovacs is desperate to understand where Quellcrist is. This recap of Netflix Series Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 1 "Phantom Lady" contains significant spoilers. Season 2, Episode 1 is an explosive start to the new story of Altered Carbon. It opens up with Takeshi Kovacs claiming that this is a ghost story, that technology has conquered death. It's good to know that he still talks in as many riddles as he did in Season 1. In a bar, Poe asks a woman what brings her to Maghda Prime. She states she is looking for Kovacs and Poe meekly replies that he is looking for Quellcrist Falconer. The woman tries bribing Poe with untraceable credits but Poe conveniently malfunctions. At this moment, we are introduced to our first fight scene; a man walks in and asks for Kovacs and claims he has his money. Many men in the room claim to be Kovacs and a fight breaks out. It turns out Kovacs is the female singer on the stage. He is desperate to get off this planet. "Phantom Lady" sees the woman tell Kovacs is disgusted at the thought, claiming he would never work with the Meths. Shockingly, the woman shoots Kovacs and takes his stack. All this is to introduce the audience to Kovac's new suit; Kovacs and Axley speak in a construct. Axley shows Kovacs his new sleeve, which introduces us to the actor playing Kovacs in Season 2 — Anthony Mackie. The sleeve was for military use only and with upgrades. We have a cooler suit, which can only be a good thing. Axley wants Kovacs' protection and in return, he will give him Quellcrist Falconer. Kovacs is hesitant to believe Axley but has no choice but to go ahead with the deal. But it doesn't go to plan (of course). When Kovacs wakes up in his new sleeve, Axley and his men have been killed. Poe confirms they are on Harlan's world — home, though it's been 30 years since they have lived here. Kovacs looks strained, as he swore never to return. An annoyed Kovacs wants to find out who killed Axley. Episode 1, "Phantom Lady" then gives us a taste of what the planet is all about now; Konrad Harlan has abdicated the throne. Danica has begun peace talks with the Quellist leader Joshua Kemp and initiated a cease-fire. Episode 1, "Phantom Lady" is a continuation, but quite clearly a fresh story. As we near the end, Kovacs enters a safe house and claims to be Tanaseda Hideki. Unfortunately, he was talking to Hideki's grandson and a fight ensues. The real Tanaseda Hideki turns up and realises his grandson and his men were fighting Kovacs. Kovacs asks for a favour — he wants a place to stay, off the grid. Hideki repays Kovac for his loyalty. This scene is paramount to the essence of the story — characters can have years apart, but loyalty remains a currency. Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 1 "Phantom Lady" ends with Kovacs tellis him that his sleeve, his flesh is built with memories. Kovacs stabs himself so he can remember the raw memories and he sees Quellcrist — she was the attacker at the time Axley was murdered. What an outstanding opener. Altered Encryptions Horace Axley claims he left a dying earth before stacks even existed. Kovacs experiences sickness when he first enters his new sleeve. Hideki wonders if the spirit degrades with each new sleeve. The safehouse turns back into Poe's old hotel The Nevermore. We are fast becoming the number 1 independent website for streaming coverage. This recap of Netflix Series Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 2, "Payment Deferred" contains significant spoilers. Well, the start of Wpisode 2, "Payment Deferred", gives us a taste of what Colonel Carrera is all about — he is a character that is definitely going to be enjoyed. He takes it upon himself to take over the murder investigation of Horace Axley. He asks Detective Lorcan some pressing questions, showing the military spec sleeve. After he retrieves all the information, Carrera kills Lorcan and his team brutally slaughter Lorcan's squad. St... Anyway, back to Kovacs, who is wondering why Quellcrist did not kill him when she murdered Axley. He ponders whether she knew it was him. Poe suggests to Kovacs to speak to Axley's bounty hunter but Kovacs becomes irritated that Poe's memory keeps glitching. It's clear Poe is afraid he is going to for Lizzie and does not want to reboot, especially with the emotional sentiment — I expected Kovacs to show a sliver of empathy here, but he gives nothing. Back to Colonel Carrera who visits Danica Harlan. He claims her cease-fire has not held and tells Danica that Horace Axley is dead. Carrera blames the attack on the Quellists. Due to the military sleeve information he found on-site, he claims the murder investigation is under his jurisdiction. Carerra calls Danica foolish for trying to make peace with the terrorists. There's evidently tension between government figures and the military in Episode 2. Kovacs finds Axley's bounty hunter Trepp from the first episode who shot him before being placed in his new sleeve. Kovacs kelps Trepp attack another bounty hunter Raab and his men and then threatens to destroy the stacks unless he gets more information — Trepp needs credits. Trepp gives Kovacs information about extortion and blackmail regarding Axley; she gives the names of the partners — Anton Durov and Haruki Okada. Trepp wants to work with Kovacs but he claims he works alone and gives trepp the valuable stacks. Back at the safehouse, Kovacs asks Poe to look into Anton Durov and Haruki Okada but then Poe has another memory glitch and Kovacs fumes — Poe's time to solve this problem is running out. Tanaseda Hideki has found the Meths Kovacs is looking for — Kovacs fumes — Poe's time to solve this problem is running out. Kovacs meets Anton Durov and Haruki Okada inside; he lavishes them with drugs to gain rapport. The two men get high, and he uses this moment to discuss Horace Axley. Anton and Haruki Claim that Quellcrist Falconer is back. Kovacs tells both men that Axley is dead and wants to know if they still have the patch so that he can see what Axley saw, and in return, he will offer them protection. The patch reveals Quellcrist on a killing spree — Kovacs does not believe that it is her. But the ending of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 2, "Payment Deferred" soon gives Kovacs the answer. Quellcrist turns up at the clubs and begins killing people, including brutally killing Anton and Haruki. Kovacs wants Quellcrist's sleeve, believing it isn't the real her. Kovacs and Quellcrist engage and fight and when Kovacs, and at that moment, Kovacs realizes it really is Quellcrist. Kovacs and Quellcrist do not get any time to catch up as Colonel Carrera's men arrive; Quellcrist escapes after Kovacs tells her to run away. Carerra puts an arrest order on Kovacs who tries to fight back but Carrera reveals that the sleeve he is wearing is Wedge Tech, which is owned by the military, so Kovacs is unable to pull the trigger on Carrera no matter how hard he tries. Carrera cockily says, "You are nothing but my bh". And now breathe. Related Page 3 Summary Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 3, "Nightmare Alley" serves Kovac's biggest test so far as he literally has to fight his past. This recap of Netflix Series Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 3, "Nightmare Alley" is a banger, with Kovacs in deep trouble. Colonel Carrera brings Kovacs to Governor Danica and claims he is the Meth-killer. Danica asks Kovacs why he removed the backups from the people he murdered and wonders if Joshua Kemp put him up to the assassinations. Danica sends Kovacs away to interrogation, but more tellingly, the tension between her and Carrera remains as she tells him that he is no longer needed. There are opposing agendas constantly occurring in Season 2. Poe hears the news of Kovacs' capture and his incoming execution in The Circle. Poe meets an AI called Dig 301 and asks her for help. She insists he needs a human to carry out a rescue plan. Poe is desperate so meets Trepp and warns her about Kovacs' impending execution. Trepp is blatantly still stubborn after Kovacs' rejection in earlier chapters and states she is looking for a man named Anil instead — her brother. Dig 301 decides to help Poe after initially declining. Kovacs' interrogation begins and a version of his sister Rei turns up and mocks him, and explains that Quell left. Carrera then enters the interrogation and he begins to torture Kovacs' mind. Kovacs initially mocks Carrera's torturing, displaying embarrassing images of the colonel from his mind. Carrera ups the torturing machine and Kovacs shows images of the colonel from his mind. Carrera ups the torturing machine and Kovacs initially mocks Carrera's torturing, displaying embarrassing images of the colonel from his mind. Carrera ups the torturing machine and Kovacs initially mocks Carrera's torturing machine and the colone and the colo and he realizes he is facing Takashi Kovacs, The Last Envoy. Carrera warns Danica who she's up against. Carrera reveals himself to Kovacs as CTAC and that it is his honor. He tells Kovacs that their paths have crossed before; Kovacs realizes Carrera is Jaeger. Carrera injects Kovacs with strong hallucinogenics and sends him to The Circle for execution. The next phase of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 3, "Nightmare Alley", is enticingly thrilling. A drugged-up Kovacs enters The Circle watched by an audience; first up they send in someone who looks like Ortega; meanwhile, Poe and Dig 301 get to work on the core reactor to make it overload so Kovacs can escape when the electricity surges. Kovacs realizes it is not the real Ortega and kills her. And then someone who looks like Elliot enters, which causes traumatic memories for Kovacs — he has to fight both of them for once but he falls for Rei's words while the drugs keep on kicking in. And then, the finale, Quellcrist enters and in a twist, she fights Rei — Carrera realizes that Quellcrist is the real organic Quellcrist fights. Quellcrist kills the Rei imposter and Carrera and Danica have no choice but to send in the Protectorate guards. A loyalist, that realizes it is the real Quellcrist, turns off the lights — Quellcrist and Kovacs kill all the guards and then escape. This was tantalizing, gripping television. Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 3, "Nightmare Alley" ends with Quellcrist and Kovacs returning to the safe house. Kovacs needs medical help immediately. Carrera asks Danica for more resources. She asks Carrera activates Evergreen, which will become clearer in later episodes. Quellcrist and Kovacs finally speak for the first time — Quellcrist does not even remember her own name. Altered Encryptions Due to her digging work being outlawed, Dig 301 needs a purpose which is why she helps Poe. People gamble on the outcome of The Circle execution. Carrera put his money on Kovacs. Trepp ends up in prison while after Anil. Turns out to be his brother. Her partner bails her out. They are desperate for money. Trepp reveals the bounty advertisement for Kovacs. It's a lot of money. Poe accidentally gives away their location. Dig 301 and Poe warn Kovacs that it is Harlan's day and there are too many people on the streets to go outside. Kovacs hires Dig 103 and asks her to protect Quell and resigns Poe of his service. This was a blow for the character Poe who has been struggling since the start of Season 2 with his memory glitches and clinging on to Lizzie. Next up in Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 4, "Shadow of a Doubt"; Carrera speaks to Tanaseda Hideki and asks where Kovacs is. Hideki is not forthcoming, so Carrera threatens him and demands that he brings Kovacs to him. Meanwhile, Kovacs offers to help Trepp find her brother if she helps him get off the planet; they finally agree to be partners. Kovacs then heads off to meet Tanaseda Hideki who has become a popular man. Before meeting Hideki, Kovacs recalls a memory with Jaeger; Jaeger tells Kovacs that he's off back home to Harlan's. Anyway, back to the present day and Kovacs asks Hideki for transit to escape the planet. Hideki explains that the request is almost impossible. He also reveals that Carrera visited; Hideki has a choice to make but he reveals to Kovacs and Quell learns that she is seen as a terrorist leader; Kovacs explains that the materials she is watching are Protectorate propaganda and he states she is a scientist and a warrior. Quell starts to remember her feelings and kisses Kovacs. She suddenly feels flashes of losing herself and tells Kovacs to continue kissing her; they have sex. The new plans are in motion at the halfway point; Hideki visits Danica at Harlan's celebration party and tells her that the transportation hub is in lockdown, which is causing problems; Danica falls for Hideki's complaints and provides him with two tickets. Carrera begins torturing Lila for information — the same woman who turned off the lights in the last episode to help Quell. Carrera then learns that Danica has requested that Lila is moved away from the interrogation, essentially reducing Carrera's authority. Carrera suspects that he was interrogating attached to huge rockets that are fireworks. Danica attached all the suspects to the rockets and they are killed. As we near the end of Episode 4, "Shadow of a Doubt", Hideki tells Kovacs via video feed that transportation has been arranged he gives his goodbye. In a twist, Quell is with Hideki, and he admits that he deserves whatever happens next — she kills him. Kovacs then arrives at Hideki find everyone is dead, including Hideki. He links Hideki's stack to his mind to look at his memories. The stack begins to malfunction and Trepp manages to save Kovacs. Kovacs learns that Quell is killing the Founders. Kovacs finds her sitting in the shower and she exclaims, "It happened again". Quell does not understand why this keeps waking up with blood on her hands. Meanwhile, Poe wants to find out why Quell's mind is fragile, naming it "P-Frag". Dig 301 tells Poe that he is unable to save humans but he dismisses that idea and plans to find Konrad. In a significant moment, serving the twist, Carrera ells Kovacs Prime to hunt himself; he explains that Quellcrist infected the original Kovacs: "Reclaim your place in this world". As one last persuasion, Carrera tells Kovacs Prime that Kovacs Prime that Kovacs Prime that Kovacs is not the meth-killer, Quell is. Footage of Quellcrist performing the murders has been released and has sparked Kemp's revolution to reignite. Kovacs is now worried about Quell's safety and that they go behind enemy lines where Kemp resides. Quell insists it is safer if she goes alone. Fuelled with revenge in the mind, Tanaseda Hideki enters the hotel, but then Kovacs Prime asks Dig 301 where Kovacs is. Kovacs Prime cruelly overrides Dig 301 over and over again to get information. It was difficult to watch Dig 301 resisting, as tears left her eyes every time Kovacs Prime gave the override order. At the midway point of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 5, "I Wake Up Screaming", while heading towards the stronghold to protect Quell, they enter a supplies store; Trepp and Kovacs bump into Trepp's father. This was an emotional, but unforgiving moment for Trepp and kills Trepp's father. Quell starts losing herself again and Kovacs and Trepp calm her down, asking Quell to breathe deeply. Quell is upset, insisting that Kovacs cannot help her. She continues to argue with Kovacs, claiming the people she killed all deserved to die before running off and fainting. Back at the Protectorate HQ, Governor Danica holds a meeting with the members and declares martial law. Carrera immediately disagrees with this action. She places all the members under house arrest, suspecting that they were plotting against her. Carrera now knows that Danica released the footage of Quell to gain more leverage. Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 5, "I Wake Up Screaming" ends with Kovacs Frime and Kovacs finally going head to head near the stronghold. They fight but they are almost always in sync, but Kovacs Prime gets the edge in this confrontation and kicks Kovacs off the cliff edge. That was a cool ending to be fair, but Episode 5 struggled to get its story across. Altered Encryptions Poe goes to meet the prophet Soul Brasil to get answers on Quell — he asks Konrad Harland renounced. Elizabeth is there. She offers to find Konrad. He learns the entire construct is fraudulent. Poe threatens to destroy the construct if they don't let him leave. Quell apologizes to Trepp about her brother becoming a Quellist. They track an AI (Dig) opening a construct so they can find Kovacs and Quell in the real world. The construct is activated; Kovacs enters and sees a young girl that says, "Daddy, what's wrong?". Quell shows up and tells Kovacs that children are the future. Kovacs senses instantly that it isn't Quell, it is the invader. As the construct is live, Trepp learns that Myka and TJ have been captured by Governor Danica; Trepp argues with Poe, stating she needs Kovacs' sleep to help save them — he agrees while Kovacs is in the construct. Trepp swaps sleeves. Meanwhile, Danica wants to know how to control Angelfire and wants answers from Myka. At the midway point of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 7, "Experiment Perilous", Kovacs speaks to the invader to want revenge — as they fight, the construct starts collapsing; Quell goes into cardiac arrest and Dig 301 has a lag in her system. The construct reset. We learn that the invader consciousness was in the songspire — she escaped when Anil and his crew came through. She's not human, she's an Elder. Due to the collapse in the construct. The Elder shows a memory to Kovacs — it shows Konrad with Teneseda as they discover life force; Konrad, against Teneseda's warnings, carries out genocide on the Elders. That explains why Quell has decided to kill so many Founders — it's purely revenge from an outrageous act. Myka tells Danica about Elder technology in the Songspire — Trepp enters in Kovacs' skin and kills Danica's men and shoots Danica in the leg. Myka also has a go at shooting a bullet in Danica. Trepp quickly swaps back to sleeves after saving Myka and TJ. Kovacs learns that the Elder (in the subtitles as Jailer Quell) was helped by Quell to get revenge for the genocide by the Founders. This recap of Netflix Series Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 8, "Broken Angels" is not as impressive as last season's finale but it is still memorable. It opens up with Kovacs, Quell and the team sustaining fire from the pretorians but then it suddenly stops. Kovacs Prime has killed them all and has offered to help them. They learn that the Elder has found a way out of the firewall. Kovacs predicts that Jaeger would have let it out. Quell is irritated in Episode 8, explaining to Kovacs that getting close to him was a mistake, and causes too many problems. I felt this for Kovacs; Altered Carbon demonstrates purpose was if Quell isn't part of his plans. When they reach Trepp's father's store, they find him dead and his stack is destroyed. Kovacs senses it was Kovacs Prime that killed him. Quell tries to remind an angry and upset Trepp that Angelfire will be raining down on the entire planet — Trepp does not care and leaves. Kovacs Prime is seeing consequences for his violent actions in the finale. Kovacs Prime approach Danica in her home. They explain that one of the Elders is in Carrera's stack and that they need to find Konrad — they have seen the memory of genocide in the Songspire; the Founders need to answer for their crimes. Danica throws them Konrad's destroyed stack — it appears she led a coup against Konrad a long time ago and the myth surrounding him was all false. Quell tries negotiating with Danica, offering the technology where she could control Angelfire; she suggests offering the Elder Konrad's stack so they rest, knowing revenge has taken place. In return, Quell wants safe transport off the planet. Poe then turns up to warn everyone that the Orbitals are moving. Kovacs Prime remembers that Trepp's coils are connected with the Orbital and she could disrupt the signal and buy them time to get close to Jaeger. Kovacs Prime to convince Trepp to join them — you can sense the tension between Kovacs Prime to do the system reboot when the time is right — the hologram of the software is Elizabeth. Kovacs shares a drink with Poe to grieve his impending death. I also think Kovacs was drowning his sorrows over Quell's comments about getting close to him. "We're all broken, Poe. There's nothing more human than that". Poe realizes the little time he has left and starts immediately tracking the Orbitals. He also tells Kovacs not to squander the time he has. As we reach the midway point of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 8, "Broken Angels", Kovacs admits to Quell that he has been shortsighted because of her but he will stand by her no matter what, even if it isn't reciprocal. Quell tells Kovacs that he is a crack in her armor and one that she cannot afford. At the same time, she explains that Kovacs gave her strength to break free. Kovacs senses that she is being extra-loving because she has a plan he won't like. Quell's plan is to kill Jaeger and transfer the Elder back into her; when their minds are intertwined, she will get the Angelfire to shoot into her and the Elder — "Life has to have limits or we're not humans anymore". They have an emotional conversation, and Kovacs is distraught at her plans: "I wish you loved me enough to live". Meanwhile, Kovacs Prime tries to convince Trepp to use her coils to disrupt the Elder's plans. He tells Trepp that her father was really brave and wouldn't give her up. Kovacs Prime gives Trepp the option to kill him. Poe finds the Orbitals convergence at the needlecast station. Trepp and Kovacs, Danica and Quell head out to the station. Trepp and Kovacs Prime also show up. Trepp and Kovacs Prime also show up. Trepp and Kovacs Prime also show up. Trepp and Kovacs, Danica and Quell head out to the station. Trepp and Kovacs Prime also show up. Trepp also show up. by the Elder. Danica tries to compliment the Elder and shows the destroyed stack of Konrad. Danica then goes against the plan and shoots at Jaeger and then Quell and Kovacs fistfight the Elder. Kovacs tries to get through to Jaeger while fighting — the Elder activates the Orbitals again. And then, the action continues as Kovacs Prime enters the fray to join the fight. Kovacs manages to grab Jaeger from behind and asks him to pull the trigger — he does. The Elder transfers to Kovacs and he looks strained. In a damning, emotional moment, he whispers "survive" to Quell, before pointing Angelfire at him. He is completely obliterated — Kovacs is dead and his stack is dust; he carried out Quell's plans. Quell is absolutely devastated. As we near the end of Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 8, "Broken Angels", Kovacs Prime reports back to the commission and explains that Quellcrist Falconer was incinerated — the members explain that Kovacs Prime's fate will be decided later in regards to the double sleeving but Kovacs Prime insists there was one sleeve left and the last envoy is gone. It seems they all agreed to a cover story. Dig 301 narrates that second chances are earned. Kovacs Prime radios to Quell with an update; she won't tell him where she is going and as she says that, an imagined Kovacs walks up being her and asks, "Still chasing death?". Quell is going to fix all this and live. Altered Carbon Season 2, Episode 8, "Broken Angels" ends with Dig writing a book about Poe so his story can be preserved, but then he returns, not remembering a thing — starting from scratch. She explains to Poe his origin and then he gets out a decryption key. Dig enters it and realizes he is storing raw human DHF. Dig 301 says, "Better get the whiskey ready". It seems that Kovacs and Poe agreed to store Kovacs human DHF — he's not truly gone. Altered Encryptions It looks like the Governor has her own clones of herself. When she wakes up, you can see similar naked bodies behind her. We are fast becoming the number 1 independent website for streaming coverage. Please support Ready Steady Cut today.
